

TRAIN THE TRAINER

As a manager or trainer you spend a lot of your time with people, working hard to jointly achieve set goals. To this end, you not only need to make use of your team's strengths, but you also need to identify areas of improvement. With you in charge, everyone's talents are used to the full, which has a positive effect on people's involvement and the relationship between you and your team. The manner in which you coach, supervise and train, greatly determines the way your team performs as a whole. This training course will make you aware of the effects of your attitude and behavior on your staff (and the results). You will learn how to stimulate, motivate people and increase your effectiveness as a trainer/manager.
